Q.103 (SPLIT C) Now I'd like to read you a pair of statements that describe what Democrats and Republicans are saying about President Obama's economic proposals. After I read these statements I'd like you to tell me whether the FIRST statement or the SECOND statement comes closer to your own view, even if neither is exactly right.

Democrats say, these plans lay the foundation for long-term prosperity by reforming health care to bring costs down for consumers and businesses, investing in education so our children can compete in the world market, and making America the leader in renewable energy so the jobs and industries of the future are built right here, not in China or India - all while putting us on a path toward fiscal sustainability by cutting the deficit in half over the next four years

Republicans say, with all of the bailouts, the trillion-dollar stimulus bill and now the four trillion dollar budget Obama and the Democrats are spending too much, taxing too much and borrowing too much. They pay for all this spending by implementing the largest tax increase in American history and borrowing from nations like China, tripling our debt in the next ten years and saddling our children and grandchildren with massive problems in the years to come.

Q.104 (SPLIT D) Now I'd like to read you a pair of statements that describe what Democrats and Republicans are saying about President Obama's economic proposals. After I read these statements I'd like you to tell me whether the FIRST statement or the SECOND statement comes closer to your own view, even if neither is exactly right.

Democrats say, these plans will cut the budget deficit inherited from the Bush administration in half while making investments to ensure long-term economic prosperity. After 8 years of mismanagement under the Bush administration, these plans address our health care deficit that has left 45 million uninsured, our education deficit that has our children falling behind students around the world, and our energy technology deficit that has allowed China and India to pass us in the development of clean, renewable energy.

Republicans say, with all of the bailouts, the trillion-dollar stimulus bill and now the four trillion dollar budget Obama and the Democrats are spending too much, taxing too much and borrowing too much. They pay for all this spending by implementing the largest tax increase in American history and borrowing from nations like China, tripling our debt in the next ten years and saddling our children and grandchildren with massive problems in the years to come.
